

Canadian Small Business Grants for 2016

January 2nd, 2016 Ottawa, Ontario ☐ Canada

2016 is here, and with the new year will be an increased interest in new business start-ups. We call this the "New Years Small Business Grants" effect.

What does the 2016 New Years Small Business Grants effect mean for you as a business owner?

The answer to this may be as simple as knowing when to time your search for government funding programs in the form of small business loans and small business grants. As an existing business owner, or an individual actively starting a business, it is of critical importance that you apply for the government grants and loans programs for business BEFORE the mass of applicants that happen every year, and will likely continue into early 2016.

The tools that we offer at Canadian Grants Business Center can be used to your advantage. If you are even considering applying for government grants or government loans for your business, you should contact us immediately to access our advice and tools.
